KESSINGER HUNTER
commercial real estate

Kessinger Hunter Secures Two New Portfolios
Totaling More Than 85 Properties and 8 Million SF

KANSAS CITY – Kessinger Hunter announced that is has been engaged to oversee two significant real estate portfolios. In total, the assignment encompasses approximately 8.1 million SF of industrial, retail, and office space including notable properties such as the strategically located and highly visible Kansas City Star building, as well as the Rosana Square retail complex in Overland Park, Kansas.

KH will manage and lease the diverse 2.5 million SF portfolio consisting of industrial, office, and retail owned by the Privitera family, long-time real estate investors, more widely recognized by their flagship operating company, Mark One Electric. The team of Matthew Severns, Kurt Jensen, Joe Heinzler, and Sher Blandford will administer the leasing activities.

In addition, KH will manage 5.6 million SF of industrial buildings owned by a prominent Kansas City based owner/developer located in the states of Arizona, Florida, Kansas, Missouri, Mississippi, Oklahoma, and Texas.

"In collaboration with these owners, we anticipate ongoing operating efficiencies and strong asset value enhancement for the long-term as real estate continues to be an attractive investment alternative," said John DeHardt, principal, at Kessinger Hunter.

Kessinger Hunter is an independently owned and operated full service commercial real estate firm serving the Midwest, the US and the globe for over 140 years. The firm has developed in excess of 14 million SF feet and manages over 25.5 million SF.